Scrappy the Every Thing Living Thing

Some Times he is a dog kind of

Other he is a frog kind of Mother says he is never?

Never is boring.

Weather you li(c)k(e) it. Orn't

First mayo-Aide of other living thing parts, he Fumbles along and in 2 your heart

What go fish eyes look like?

Why be mean and tired?

When yoU Can.

When you are friendly and awake,

play games on your own,

Scrappy the Every Thing Living Thing Finds His Way Into Your Heart

And you are what you are

What are you?

What you are! And you are what you were and you aren't Scrappy

But he will all ways be a friend to everyone

Don't be selfish.

In my BRAIN!~!~~~`nnnn

Hey Let's go to that Walmart Parking Lot

In my Brain!!!! My brain!!!!

Miro seemed like he was very busy with materials, and all those notes are so daunting.

Why do I always start enjoying something then try to search the seas for more things and then overload my to-do list for that day? I should slow down.

Reading through all Miro's ideas on painting and the physical ideas involved with the material makes me less interested. A lot of the things involved are about the materials like paint and how to deal with these objects. I would much rather deal with computer files than any of these things. I keep thinking of how I want to be a first of a new type of person, like a Solo Game Artist. This is why learning programming seems more interesting to me, however my dream of the glory of a painter and the families of great painters are getting in the way. Painting is haunting me.

I have thought about it and I don't care if anything I make lasts longer than my lifetime. I don't really care if digital work lasts longer or not as long as real paintings or art, and I don't care if the real things decay and lose color. I don't have a lot of time and I need to just do what I really enjoy.

Will Harriet change her mind? Sometimes you have to lie and apologize.

Will I live in a virtual world at one point to pass the time?

NTS : Write some Art Essays ( 1st about Harriet the Spy )

NTS : Do so much that it cannot be ignored.

Is Creation from human imagination uninteresting?

Does the best painting come from things outside the head?

Should the imagination be challenged?

Thoughts on Computer Game Design,

Rollercoaster ride where certain things are under control that switches as time goes on.

People usually will ride roller coasters again, and come back to them after being away for awhile.

Replayability in Single Player is an important factor. Think Album / Favorite painting. Something that someone would be sad about if it was deleted and unable to be viewed more than once. Therefore the content needs to be great enough to be re-experienced.

Organizing is what you do before you do something, so that when you do it, it's not all mixed up.

Look for the fun and you'll start a happy cycle

There are as many ways to live as there are people in the world

Going to bed at night makes me feel like I have given up

Gg -do something with my body - ie. draw with it

are you an either/or thinker, or both/and thinker?

Either more?

“ there is a sense in which an artist can submit only to one’s influence and be so completely enslaved by it that his own personality is obliterated. And there is a since in which an artist can submit to a multitude of influences and yet always remain himself. “

My content is not me.

If anything, I am my content.

I draw something first, and it’s meaning and form is then something I reflect back onto myself.

Jpix philosophical questions?

Should the loading of outside images be allowed? Eg. A photograph, a picture made in photoshop etc.

Should users be allowed to take an image from their webcam and draw on top of it? Eg. Gameboy camera.

Should ALL tools should be able to function and work together if the user so wishes.

I see the interest in games coming early. Perhaps I should start one soon? I do think it is possible to work on two projects at once. A flash game and jPix, which I see as very game like. The problem is that I can't let either one suffer. Is it feasible to be done with Jpix before Xmas break? I think so. I am going to make that my goal. Finish Jpix before Christmas break, but I need to make sure that the integrity of it does not suffer.

This week I am going to be taking it easy however, and spend most of my time working in drawing and painting.

ToDo

1. Draw plans for comission.
2. Paint for something.
